Why choose Lea Green?

At Lea Green we believe every child and young person should experience the outdoors as an integral part of their learning and development.

Our main purpose is to give children, young people and families experiences that enable them to grow and develop for the future.

The outdoor environment can be a very powerful tool, and through different activities and experiences we can help people develop their health and fitness, confidence, social and communication skills and personal achievement.

High quality outdoor education can stimulate and inspire, foster independence, aid personal and social development, and can often motivate reluctant learners.

Lea Green offers a range of environments where children and young adults can re-energise their appetite to learn.

By working with individuals and groups, we can help to create confident young people, who lead safe and healthy lives and want to make positive contributions to society.

When they visit Lea Green, young people experience something they may not otherwise get much chance to do. We try to open their eyes to different possibilities and opportunities.

"At Lea Green, we care about children, young people and families. You can see it in our staff, our facilities and the smiles we put on people's faces."

"We all want to give children and young people a positive learning experience that they can take away: more confidence, more knowledge about themselves and others, creativity, resilience."

Ian Price,
Head of Sport, Outdoor and Residential Education,
Derbyshire County Council
